

PAR-Projects is a non-profit, fine arts organization based in the culturally diverse neighborhood of Northside, Cincinnati. As a creative engine, we enjoy organizing conversation-worthy exhibitions and collaborations throughout Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky. As a community-building conglomerate, we are dedicated to providing educational opportunities related to graphic design & career development throughout the region.

Our offerings can be highlighted by looking beyond FACE Value of the artwork we exhibit. Broken down, this communicates that Fine Arts + Collaboration + Education add to the Value of each of the communities we serve — a statement we believe in wholeheartedly.

Originally, PAR-Projects was founded as an alternative gallery space looking to connect with its community on a more intimate level. But early on, when a void in access to the arts and educational opportunities for teenagers and professionals was noticed, we evolved into a service based organization dedicated to advancing fine arts & artists in multiple ways.

To date, our most impressive projects have been rooted in collaboration. From our work with ArtsWave, CSO & concert:nova — to create Symphonic Stylings; to partnering with The MainStrasse Village Association & local jazz musicians to create a large-scale, outdoor sculpture event — Brass Meets Bronze; our best ideas come from having different minds, from different communities, sit down and figure out how to work together.

Still, education remains at the heart of PAR-Projects. Providing affordable access to career-focussed classes is an excellent way to help build up a community. In addition, aside from computer graphics training, offering workshops designed to help artists become more career-minded helps up serve as a well-rounded resource for creative individuals.

Using these approaches, we're able to add to the value of the communities we serve. And when boiled down, we're simply happy that our dedication to working with others, to improve access to the arts, has afforded us the opportunity to stimulate growth in our community.
